Students will usually choose subjects from three of the columns in the table; these might be different subjects or different components of one subject, for example a hospitality Diploma would comprise “Hospitality 1” and “Hospitality 2” thus fulfilling two out of the three choices. Subjects chosen must be in different columns: subjects in the same column cannot be chosen together

BTECs

1 = BTEC Extended Certificate (one A Level equivalent); 2 = BTEC Diploma (two A Levels equivalent); 3 = BTEC Extended Diploma (three A Levels equivalent)

In order to study a BTEC Diploma (two A Levels equivalent), a pupil must select the matching parts “1” and “2” e.g. BTEC Sport 1 and BTEC Sport 2. In order to study a BTEC Extended Diploma (three A Levels equivalent), a pupil must select the “1” and “2” matching pair as well as the equivalent “3” e.g. BTEC Sport 1, BTEC Sport 2 and BTEC Sport 3.

These subjects can be chosen with any subjects from columns B, C, D and E, including those coloured red providing, where relevant, the matching parts “1” and “2” have been chosen. Subjects identified as “3” can only be chosen with the matching parts “1” and “2”.

These subjects can be chosen with subjects from columns A, B, C, D and E, excluding those coloured red. BTEC Creative Media and BTEC Design and must be chosen across both columns where they appear.

These subjects are BTEC Extended Certificates (1 A level equivalents) and can be chosen with subjects in columns A, C, D, and E. They can also be combined with the matching parts 2 and 3, where relevant, to form part of larger BTEC qualifications.

These subjects can only be chosen with subjects in column A and/or the subjects coloured green in column B and must be chosen with the matching part “1”.

Music Technology  is timetabled outside the column blocks, but cannot be chosen alongside subjects in columns E and C.

The Extended Project Qualification is an extra qualification that can only be chosen alongside the usual three-column load and must be done so in consultation with the Head of Sixth Form.

Students who need to retake Maths of English GCSE may do so in either of the columns in which it appears.
